Girls Fought with Rapiers.

"Speaking of prize fights reminds me of one I once witnessed in Marseilles, France, between two as handsome young women as ever looked out upon the blue Mediterrean," said Otto Gottless than the heart and hand of a gay young sea captain who might have posed for the statue of Apollo, and who, rumor said, had practised piracy on the Barbary coast. It was no soft glove affair, let me tell you. In fact, it was a duel to the death, and the weapons used were rapiers with points like cambric needles. It appears that the roving swain was another Don Juan, and made or degree—External, Internal, Blind or Bleeding, Irehing, Chronic, Recent or Hereditary, 81.00 a box; 6 boxes, 85.00. Sent by mail, met. Two pretty Marseilles lace makers were the recipients of marked attention from him and grew insanely jer ous of each other. They met one in his presence and engaged in a ve undignified scratching match, and suggested that they settle the difficult a la mode promising to marry the su vivor. They agreed and the ne-morning's sunrise saw them in a wood ed suburb of the city with their atten ants ready for the fray. Through friend of the mischief-loving young cr tain I learned of the affair, and, in cor pany with a Parisian journalist, was present. "Your French maid is nothing if not dramatic, and both stripped to the waist, wearing only spiked shoes, stock-ings and short skirts. At least that was ings and short skirts. At least that was the only clothing visible. The captain acted as master of ceremonies and privately encouraged each to go in and win. I thought of the contest on Mt. Ida as I looked on the scene. Here was Paris, Venus and Juno, but Minerva, dear Goddess of Wisdom, was con spicuous by her absence. The combat-ants faced each other on a grassy plat surrounded by live trees, just as the sun showed his rim above the wave; and they went at their work with a will Neither knew anything about fencing, but each was hungry for the other's gore, and reckless in consequence. Their temper soon got the better of their judgment, however, and they began to belabor each other with their weapons as though they were broomsticks. This proving unsatisfactory, they dropped their rapiers and began to pull hair, while the barbarous captain rapied on the grass and chicked with rolled on the grass and shricked with laughter. The journalist soon got enough, and, despite the captain's protestations, separated them.
